2008 Phi Eta Sigma National Convention

National Convention Leadership

A strength of Phi Eta Sigma—and this is a unique strength—is our form of government. We are governed by a Constitution and Laws generated by student delegates attending national conventions. The student-directed Nominations Committee at the 2008 Louisville convention, pictured above, demonstrated the long-held Phi Eta Sigma principle that our student convention committees are responsible and able to provide national guidance and leadership if given that responsibility.

The Nominations Committee membership included chairperson Andrew Grant (UCLA) and members Katelynn Muth (Clarion University of Pennsylvania), Devon Hodge (Monmouth University), and Chandra Steiner (University of North Dakota). Advisers were Executive Committee members Linda Chu (UCLA) and Mary Jo Custer (Syracuse University).
The University of Louisville chapter adviser Joni Burke represented Kentucky Governor Steve Beshear in commissioning Phi Eta Sigma Grand President Molly Lawrence as a Kentucky Colonel during the Executive Committee dinner, a highlight event of the 2008 Louisville convention.

Academic Honoraries and the Presidential Campaign

by Grand President Molly M. Lawrence

We have recently witnessed an historic time for our country, and we are pleased that many members of the Phi Eta Sigma family have been actively involved in the national election process. Certainly, participation in the democratic process provides an extraordinary opportunity for our academic communities to engage in a robust exchange of ideas, within a diverse and inclusive learning environment.

Most of those discussions have been characterized by the principles of civility and respect that must govern any expression of free speech and open debate, on or off campuses. Many of the discussions have been sponsored by academic honor societies. Perhaps these actions contributed to the presidential debates being held on college campuses.

Individuals who live, work, teach, and study within academic communities are expected to contribute positively to the environment and to refrain from behaviors that threaten the freedom and respect that every member of academic communities deserves. On many campuses, members of academic honoraries led by example during the past months.

We know that we can count on Phi Eta Sigma and other academic honoraries to make sure that academic communities continue to be diverse, nurturing, and inclusive learning environments that are dedicated to the pursuit of personal and academic excellence and the ideals of individual worth and human dignity. Your Phi Eta Sigma Executive Committee is committed to perpetuating the long established foundation of our Society to encourage and reward high scholastic achievement among members of the first-year college classes and to do so ethically.

We are truly living our Phi Eta Sigma motto: “Knowledge is Power.”

Molly M. Lawrence (The University of Alabama) is the eleventh Grand President of Phi Eta Sigma Honor Society.
Where Have the Years Gone?

by Grand Secretary-Treasurer John W. Sagabiel

The Phi Eta Sigma Honor Society that touches our life today evolved from the life experiences of Dr. Thomas Arkle Clark of the University of Illinois around the turn of the last century to one of the largest undergraduate honor societies in America today. Who would have guessed during the initial founders years beginning in 1923 that several of the charter founding student members at the University of Illinois would dedicate their careers to leadership in higher education and this new Society, Phi Eta Sigma.

The University of Illinois hosted the first national convention in 1928 with seven chapters constituting the national society. All seven chapters were represented at this convention by chapter delegates and chapter advisers. Members of the Executive Committee were elected. Topics relating to opportunities for the Society were discussed, with emphasis on the importance of democratic governance, scholarship recognition, membership development, and financial management. University of Illinois charter members Herb Smith, Ray Glos, and Fred Turner were elected to the Executive Committee and would remain active throughout their professional lives in higher education and thereafter.

By the time I attended my first national convention as a chapter adviser in 1970, charter members had evolved as Grand President Herb Smith, Grand Treasurer Ray Glos, and Grand Historian Fred Turner, each of whom were still active. They were joined on the Executive Committee by Jim Foy (Auburn University) in 1948 and Arno Nowotny (University of Texas) in 1950. Dean Foy would serve for many years as Grand Secretary-Treasurer and Dean Nowotny as Grand President. Mrs. Emmalou Foy would serve as office manager during the four-decade tenure of Dean Foy as Grand Secretary-Treasurer-Editor.

The University of Illinois hosted the Fiftieth Anniversary National Convention during March 1973. A highlight of the convention presentations was an historic reflection speech by Dean Fred Turner from the chartering of the University of Illinois chapter to 1973. Following his comments, he made an off-the-cuff remark that he would like to see me become a member of the Executive Committee. In September 1975, Dean Turner died, and in keeping with his wishes, I was appointed to the Executive Committee. I would later be elected Grand President during the 1986 Indiana University national convention.

In 1989 the Phi Eta Sigma Executive Committee met for the first off-convention-year workshop in Louisville, Kentucky. This meeting marked the first time in our history that the Executive Committee had met other than during a national convention. In May 1991 the Committee met for its second off-year workshop in Nashville, Tennessee.

Present during the 1991 off-year workshop were Executive Committee members John Harrell, B.J. Alexander, Molly Lawrence and myself, each of whom still serves on the Committee today. During the 1991 meeting, the Committee accepted with sincere regret the resignation of Dean Foy, while expressing sincere thanks for the four decades of dedicated leadership the Foy family shared with Phi Eta Sigma. The Committee then elected me as the new Grand Secretary-Treasurer-Editor and Grand Vice President John Harrell as Grand President. B.J. Alexander became the new Grand Vice President. The careful management of Phi Eta Sigma funds was reflected in that meeting’s Founders Fund scholarship report. The available funds increased each year during the Foy years. In 1991-92, the lives of thirty-two recipients were touched with $42,000 available for scholarships.

The national office relocated to the campus of Western Kentucky University during the Thanksgiving holidays of 1991 and opened for business on January 2, 1992, with offices located in the WKU College of Business Building and with my wife Marge and myself as the office staff.

Shortly thereafter, Ms. Ria Butts and Ms. Elaine Powell joined the staff, and the four of us still constitute the national office staff.

A highlight of the Seventy-fifth Anniversary Convention hosted by Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis during October 1998 was the unveiling of Looking Back: A Seventy-fifth Anniversary History of Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society by Grand Historian Kyle Sessions. Other highlights included the convention banquet address, which was delivered by Doug Foard (Executive Officer of Phi Beta Kappa), and the establishment of thirty-two national endowed scholarships of $2,000 each. The total graduate and undergraduate endowed scholarships and undergraduate awards totaled $105,000 for the 1998-99 school year.

The foundation of Phi Eta Sigma since its founding in 1923 has been the vitality of its chapter advisers complemented by chapter member leadership. Those leaders attending the 2006 national convention established the $10,000 Thomas Arkle Clark Scholar-Leader of the Year Award. In addition, four graduate endowed scholarships were established at $7,500 each. The 2008 national convention also enhanced the undergraduate endowed scholarships by increasing them to $6,000 each and authorized the establishment of the Nancy Kaplan (St. John’s University) Endowed Undergraduate Scholarship, which brings to thirty-seven the number of undergraduate endowed scholarships. Phi Eta Sigma also provides thirty undergraduate awards of $1,000 each. The growth of the Society’s scholarship program has been in keeping with the guidance and priorities established by our founders and the dedication of our current leadership.

Four Executive Committee members from 1991 are still active, sharing their leadership spirit with our Society. They include John Harrell, B.I. Alexander, Molly Lawrence, and myself. Seventeen additional chapter advisers have served terms on the Executive Committee from 1991 to the present time and, in keeping with the spirit of our founders, have helped to make Phi Eta Sigma the honor society it has become. Those chapter advisers are Karlem Riess (Tulane University), Gaylord Hatch (University of Illinois), Joan Nelson (UCLA), Kyle Sessions (Illinois State University), Rex Fodrea (Purdue University), Linda Rowe (Marshall University), Mary Jo Custer (Syracuse University), Howard Gray (Brigham Young University), Dana Carroll (Southwest Missouri University), Marilyn Moore (Gannon University), Tony Kemp (Mercer University), Tim Lemper (Indiana University), and Ryan Dye (St. Ambrose University).

Today we are still a good team . . . and the best is yet to come.

The initial thirty-two endowed national scholarships were dedicated during the Seventy-fifth Anniversary National Convention on October 17, 1998.

New Chapters Installed

Since the 2008 Forum was published, Phi Eta Sigma has chartered two new chapters. Several campuses are in the planning phase pursuant to chartering their chapters.

DILLARD UNIVERSITY
New Orleans, Louisiana
May 8, 2008

Founded in 1869, Dillard University is a private, comprehensive undergraduate institution, having as its purpose the development of graduates who are broadly educated, culturally aware, concerned with improving the human condition, and able to meet the competitive demands of a global and technologically advanced society. To achieve this purpose, the university strives to create and maintain an academic climate that is conducive to the pursuits of scholarship through programs of excellence anchored in the liberal arts.

The Dillard University chartering was the 363rd in the history of Phi Eta Sigma. The chartering address was presented by university president Dr. Marvalene Hughes, and the chartering chapter adviser leadership was provided by Dr. Henrietta Harris, dean of the Center for Student Performance. Chapter president Beatrice Flowers, vice president Bianca Spear, treasurer Brandon Dorrington, and secretary TaNieshia Hamilton teamed up with Dr. Harris and Stephanie Woods to induct the charter membership.

Dillard University chapter leadership touched the lives of the charter membership with a memorable induction ceremony.
Lee University chapter leadership touched the lives of their classmates with academic recognition.

LEE UNIVERSITY
Cleveland, Tennessee
September 17, 2008

Founded in 1918, Lee University is a private, comprehensive university located in Cleveland, Tennessee, in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains. Lee University is emerging as a leader in higher education in the southeastern region and was ranked in 2008 in the “Top Tier” in the South by U.S. News and World Report (Comprehensive Medium-Size Universities). The university’s growing reputation as a quality institution can be seen in the high caliber of faculty, students, and friends who are drawn to the campus. The 2007-2008 school year marked the twentieth straight year of increased enrollment under the leadership of Dr. Paul Conn, university president.

Lee’s enrollment has more than tripled from 1,214 students in 1986 to 4,086 students in fall 2007. During that same period, the faculty has grown and diversified in order to offer a rapidly expanding slate of academic programs. Since 1986, Lee has added nineteen major buildings necessary to serve the students. Chapter chartering leadership for the 364th chapter included president Alan Ponce, vice president Mallory Leonard, secretary Anna Rich, treasurer Erika Thomas, chaplain Nathan Burton, and chapter adviser Jeffrey Sargent. Not shown is assistant chapter adviser Kathryn Simmons.

2008 Chapter Activities, Projects, and Leadership

Again this year, local chapters of Phi Eta Sigma have reported their many excellent activities and projects. It is clear that Phi Eta Sigma, through its members, makes a valuable contribution to the recruitment and retention of good students on campuses nationwide. The emphasis on promoting scholarship, exercising strong organizational skills, participating in campus and community help projects, and developing innovative programs to fit each local campus never fails to impress Forum readers.

Many chapters send in newsletters directed to local members, and these, too, are remarkable for their concept and their execution. Phi Eta Sigma members are making a difference at their schools and among their fellow students, and that difference is for higher standards and citizenship values. Members will certainly continue to make differences in their homes, their communities, and their chosen careers after they leave the campus; and these differences will be to the benefit of families, friends, and fellow citizens. The following are all-too-brief summaries of the reports of chapter of champions’ leadership, activities, and projects sent to the national office by press time.

The University of Alabama chapter hosted a full agenda of activities that included touching the life of Habitat for Humanity, Relay for Life, Up Til Dawn to benefit St. Jude Research Hospital, campus Week of Welcome, Camp Smile-A-Mile, and Beat Hunger canned food drive, for which the chapter received the campus’s Crimson Star Award.

The University of Alabama Blackburn Institute, considered to be one of the most dynamic leadership development organizations in the country, recently named Phi Eta Sigma member Angelica Agee as a student fellow for 2008–2009. Agee, a sophomore from Montgomery who is majoring in English and minoring in international studies, is also an International Peer Advisory Council (IPAC) Ambassador for Capstone International Services.

The Blackburn Institute is named in honor of John L. Blackburn, who served as UA dean of students and was instrumental in the University’s peaceful integration. In 1995, the UA division of student affairs formed the institute to foster Blackburn’s belief that people link strategic actions through the generations for progressive and ethical change. The student fellow selection process is focused on identifying those students who are most interested and best able to sacrifice individual gain for the sake of community improvement. Upon graduation, these student fellows earn the title fellow; the institute assists fellows by providing continued development, support and networking opportunities. To date, there are 394 Blackburn Fellows living in twenty-four states and three foreign countries. Each year, approximately twenty-five student fellows are selected after a faculty nomination process and intensive interviews.

The Abilene Christian University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma teamed up with the local Habitat for Humanity organization to work on a new home. Members pulled nails, anchored walls, and helped wherever they were needed. They even helped build an ice-skating rink for a Habitat fundraiser and managed a three-on-three basketball tournament.

On Sunday, October 26, 2008, the Binghamton University chapter held its induction ceremony. As part of the ceremony, the chapter honored faculty adviser Professor Robert Pompi for fourteen years of hard work and dedication to the Society. Professor Pompi was instrumental in bringing a chapter of Phi Eta Sigma to Binghamton University, and he has held the position of faculty adviser since the first induction ceremony. Professor Pompi is retiring in the spring, and the student e-board thought it appropriate to present him with a plaque at his final induction ceremony.

The Brigham Young University chapter presented its Outstanding Faculty Award to Dr. Charles Swift. The chapter’s service program award recipient was the Provo School District Reading Is Fundamental project. The Phi Kappa Phi chapter presented student paper awards and five arts awards as an important part of the joint induction ceremony.

The Central Michigan University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma enjoyed another exciting and productive year. Members participated in Relay for Life to help raise money for the American Cancer Society. They also raised money for March of Dimes to help provide medical care for premature babies and support for their families. The chapter organized a charity ball titled “Holidays Around the World.” Funds raised from the charity ball were donated to Listening Ear. Recently the group has started a mentor program. Within the chapter, older members were assigned to new inductees to help inform them about the group and the campus. The program also helped to foster new friendships. Chapter members are excited about the future and are looking forward to planning exciting events and inducting new members into the group.

The Clarion University of Pennsylvania chapter has a long tradition of volunteer tutoring for elementary and high school students. In addition to tutoring, students have helped to organize and host a book drive at a local library. This year members participated in Clarion University’s Family Day by doing face painting. The CUP chapter offers two local scholarships to students each year. Students with an outstanding GPA and who are actively involved in chapter and university activities are considered. This past year, Laurie Grieshofer of Erie was awarded the Phi Eta Sigma Foundation Scholarship award of $1,050, and Deserie Vendetti of Gettysburg was awarded the Phi Eta Sigma Dr. Donald A. Nair Scholarship for $1,000. Currently, the chapter is looking forward to hosting a movie lock-in during the fall semester for all current members.

The Duquesne University chapter meets once a month and has a typical attendance of 70-100 members. To maintain these high attendance rates, rewards are offered to those who take an active role in the chapter; for example, any member who attends the first four meetings of the year will receive a custom-designed lettered T-shirt. The chapter holds at least one service project each month. In recent projects, over twenty-five members signed up as volunteers for Freshman Parent Weekend, and members operated an Alex’s Lemonade Stand to benefit childhood cancer research. The chapter’s biggest project, held in December, is a large-scale Christmas toy drive to benefit needy communities around the Pittsburgh area. For a social event, the chapter holds a dress-up Christmas dinner for all members.

The Florida Gulf Coast University spring induction and Hall of Fame recognition were held on March 15, 2008, in the Student Union Ballroom on the FGCU campus. In addition to the student ceremony, FGCU education professor and congressional candidate Dr. Lawrence Byrnes was inducted as an honorary member to signify his contributions to scholarship and education. Chapter president Marco Quiroga, vice president Ashley Vance, secretary Tracy Gregory, and treasurer Erica Turok assisted in the ceremony, and Dr. J. Michael Rollo, vice president for student affairs, delivered the keynote address. Dr. Alice McLeod Brunner, director of First-Year Advising and Orientation Activities, is faculty adviser for the FGCU chapter.

Phi Eta Sigma members Christopher A. Betts (undergraduate student, inducted 2006) and Kamla Kay McKenzie (graduate student, inducted 2003) were among an elite group honored during a recent induction ceremony to the FGCU Hall of Fame. The Hall of Fame is the highest recognition given to student leaders at the university and is reserved for students with demonstrated superior leadership, integrity, service, and scholarship while enrolled at FGCU. The Hall of Fame is limited to no more than ten students in a given academic year. Individuals who hold membership in the Hall of Fame are noted by placement of their name and picture on the Hall of Fame plaque, which is prominently displayed in the Student Union. In addition, they are awarded the prestigious Hall of Fame medallion. “Induction into the Hall of Fame is reserved for those students who have demonstrated extraordinary leadership at FGCU,” said Vice President Rollo. “Through this leadership experience, they have left a positive legacy at the university.”

Georgia Southern University inducted a record 343 first-year students in its annual Phi Eta Sigma induction ceremony on Sunday, March 2, 2008, at the Performing Arts Center, with many proud parents in attendance. University Provost Linda Bleicken welcomed the students, urging them to continue their high level of achievement. “Showing up for that 8 a.m. class and paying attention to detail are habits that will stand you in good stead in the coming years,” she told them. Bleicken also recognized the important role parents play in their student’s success.

“Membership in Phi Eta Sigma is conferred on those who give promise of continued excellence in their academic pursuits,” First-Year Experience Director Chris Caplinger told the students. He encouraged them to take their success to the next level and to not be afraid of failure. “Stretch a little: If you never fail at anything, then you’re probably not challenging yourself enough. Apply for that nationally competitive scholarship or that incredible paid internship in your field,” Caplinger said.

Phi Eta Sigma vice president Erica Hunter, secretary Catherine Vaughn, and treasurer Natalie Spehar explained the elements of membership: a disciplined mind, a well-cared-for body, and an upstanding character. Phi Eta Sigma president Zachary Damon administered the oath to the new members. Associate Provost Amy Heaston introduced Bleicken and was there to congratulate the new members as they signed the chapter roll and received their certificates. Michelle Cawthorn, associate professor of biology, was recognized as the 2007 First-Year Experience Outstanding Faculty Advocate. Parents and students gathered in the Nessmith-Lane Building atrium for a brief reception following the ceremony.
The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign was the founding chapter of Phi Eta Sigma in 1923. This very active chapter offers tutoring to fellow university students and at a local Urbana school, helping special friends to raise their test scores. In addition, the chapter raised over $7,000 for the American Cancer Society through its Relay for Life participation. In support of the Children’s Miracle Network, members raised another $7,000 for its budget needs.

The Indiana University Southeast chapter was thrilled to have increased the number of new members initiated by 94 percent (as compared with 2006–2007) due to extensive advertising and new service projects. Many of the newest inductees were also students in the Honors Program; the Honors Program director, Dr. Angela M. Salas, was selected as the chapter’s honorary member for the spring 2008 induction. Community service projects for the year included an American Red Cross blood drive for the IU/Purdue University Blood Donor Challenge and an Easter basket donation to the Center for Women and Families in New Albany, Indiana. Many more community service projects and campus-wide events have been organized for the 2008–2009 academic year, including workshops focusing on admission to graduate school and résumé writing. Chapter leaders are planning new events for membership recruitment to make the spring 2009 induction even larger.

The IUS chapter is also pleased to announce that many members are eligible for membership into Omicron Delta Kappa and Alpha Chi honor societies. Two of the officers, president Allison Dudley and vice president Ann McNally, were awarded the Chancellor’s Medallion Leadership Award, the most prestigious scholarship awarded to students at IUS. Chapter members congratulated chapter president Allison Dudley on being the recipient of a 2008 national undergraduate award.

Jacksonville State University’s annual Phi Eta Sigma induction was held on April 17, 2008. Approximately two hundred family members and friends attended and enjoyed the formal ceremony and reception that followed the initiation of seventy new members. The chapter awarded campus scholarships to eleven members who have maintained perfect 4.0 GPAs during the year following their induction: Amanda Anderson, Jacob Boydston, Heather Boyett, Kimbulyyn Chandler, Ashley Gaither, Geoffrey Greiner, Annamaria Jacob, Jayne Lampley, Jennifer Nation, Holly Rice, and Kristin Shirey. Last year’s officers attended the fall and spring preview days to talk with potential students about Phi Eta Sigma.

University of Puget Sound chapter activities touched the life of My Sister’s Pantry with gifts of food and the Puget Creek Restoration project with donated labor. Chapter members also provided some leadership help with a local fundraising walk and provided chapter tutoring expertise to a local elementary school.

The Southeast Missouri State University chapter joined with the campus chapter of The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi to host an “Honors Showcase” on February 28, 2008, for eligible new members of both organizations. Current officers and members of each organization were on hand to explain the benefits of membership. Hors-d’oeuvres and desserts were prepared and served by students in the university’s hospitality management and dietetics programs.

Southwest Baptist University scheduled its fall induction for new honorees and participated in a campus-wide academic forum by presenting “Faith and The Founding Fathers.”

The Syracuse University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma has planned the following events and activities for the 2008-2009 academic year: congratulatory letters to all inductees; a list serve created for the Class of 2011 providing communication regarding regular leadership meetings and general membership meetings; Register of Graduates recognizing the Class of 2009; participation in the Student Involvement Fair and Light the Night for Leukemia; Westcott Street Cultural Fair volunteers; Operation Boxes from Home for soldiers abroad; résumé and internship workshop; dinner etiquette seminar; Syracuse University Abroad Information session; Making Strides Against Breast Cancer Walk; blood drives; Halloween event for Sudanese refugee children; Vera House Drive against domestic violence; visit the pediatric floors of two hospitals for the children and families; Gingerbread House Making study break, and taking the houses to three local hospitals; Easter egg hunt for children; Kids Fest for Syracuse City School children; and providing honor cords for 2009 graduates.

Tau Beta Pi is the national engineering honor society, founded at Lehigh University in 1885. The Society has chartered collegiate chapters at 234 engineering colleges in the United States and active alumni chapters in eighteen cities. The Society has initiated nearly 500,000 members in its 123-year history and is the world’s largest engineering honor society. During the past year, twenty-one Phi Eta Sigma members earned membership in Tau Beta Pi.

The University of Tennessee-Knoxville chapter of Phi Eta Sigma had a busy and productive year of service during 2007–2008! Four hundred fifteen new members were inducted into the honor society and welcomed back to school in August. With a new year came new leadership as the following members were elected to serve as chapter officers: president Holly Buchanan, vice president Corey Benick, secretary Courtney Holder, treasurer Amanda Presley, co-historians Brittany Rinehart and Kayla Jackson, and community service coordinator Julia Price.

Throughout the school year, members participated in many service activities benefitting the UTK campus, as well as the Knoxville community. During the fall, projects included Boo at the Zoo annual trick-or-treat fundraising event for the local zoo, a Campus Clean Up Day, and a canned food drive for Second Harvest Food Bank. To celebrate the holiday season, Phi Eta Sigma members displayed their spirit of giving by “adopting” two children in the Angel Tree program and by volunteering at the Fantasy of Trees benefit for a children’s hospital. In the spring, members enjoyed cooking meals for guests at the Ronald McDonald House, holding another Campus Clean Up Day, and organizing the annual membership drive. The UTK chapter is very excited about the addition of many new service, academic, and social opportunities during the upcoming year. The chapter is advised by Mary Mahoney and Jenny Burkemper, both of whom work at the Career Services office.

The Tennessee State University chapter is providing the campus leadership for several fundraisers for cancer research. The chapter also participates in the university homecoming parade.

The University of Toledo chapter hosted a fundraiser for the city’s Adopt-A-Family program. Following the fundraiser, the chapter scheduled a bowling social for the chapter membership.
The University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire chapter of Phi Eta Sigma launched its newly streamlined executive board structure, and the resulting improved service to its members was evident in the success of its 2007–2008 programs. Serving as one of the hosts of the fall Honor Societies Summit, Phi Eta Sigma was instrumental in planning and producing a retreat designed to allow all UW-Eau Claire honors groups to gather, collaborate and prepare for a successful academic year. Regular executive meetings allowed the service, social, and scholarship vice presidents to implement programs and keep the other officers informed and involved. Monthly service projects were combined with social activities, e.g. Tidy up the Town yard work for senior citizens/pizza party; cookie decorating for the local women’s shelter combined with a Christmas cookie reception for members; helping organize and run the CROPwalk against Hunger/post-event dessert meeting. Chapter members distributed two thousand informational bookmarks (with Smarties candies attached) to all First-Year Experience classes, established a local endowed scholarship through the university foundation, and updated the chapter’s by-laws/constitution to comply with university guidelines.

Members and officers of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay chapter clean up a two-mile stretch of a highway near the college campus in association with the Adopt-A-Highway program. They fill garbage bags with trash picked up along the highway, and the highway department picks up the bags the next day. Members perform this service twice each year in the fall and spring semesters and then go back to campus for a small pizza party as a reward.

The UW-Green Bay chapter’s Adopt-A-Family service project is administered through the local community Salvation Army. Chapter members decide what size family they wish to “adopt” and are then assigned a family for whom they do holiday shopping. They purchase toys, hygiene products, and gift certificates for members of the adopted family with chapter funds and donations. They hold a holiday social where the members get together and wrap and label the gifts for the family members. Later the chapter officers drop off the gifts at a designated time and place set by the Salvation Army. The UW-Green Bay chapter also pays the registration fee and purchases a T-shirt for members to participate in the annual Jingle Bell Walk/Run for Arthritis. Participants receive a funny pack containing small items such as lip balm and lotion, along with jingle bells that may be tied to their shoelaces during the event. At the end of the walk, participants are provided with a small meal.

The Worcester State College chapter of Phi Eta Sigma spent the 2007–08 academic year becoming more involved in the campus and community. With multiple fundraisers, including bake sales and a cookie-decorating booth at Homecoming, they were able to contribute another year of secondary school education for six students in Tanzania. They have paid for tuition, fees, and school uniforms for these students for three years. The chapter adviser visited these students in May 2007, and they wrote letters of thanks to chapter members. In addition to the Tanzania Schools Project, the chapter has organized collections of supplies for Abby’s House, a local shelter for women and children. One of the chapter’s most active members experienced a death in her family from domestic violence, so the chapter members decided to contribute to Abby’s House in memory of this member’s aunt.

$10,000 Thomas Arkle Clark Scholar-Leader of the Year Award

Leigh Ann Baker
The Florida State University

Dean Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois and one of the three founders of Phi Eta Sigma, was our first Grand President, serving from 1927 until 1933.

The third recipient of the Clark Scholar-Leader of the Year Award is Leigh Ann Baker, a graduate of The Florida State University, where she majored in biology and psychology and minored in chemistry.

Leigh has been involved in numerous facets of Phi Eta Sigma leadership and service at FSU, including updating the chapter scrapbook as a member of the chapter historian’s committee, participating on the championship brain bowl team, and being involved in a quilting service project to benefit a local homeless shelter. As chapter vice president, she organized the annual Leadership Workshop for the executive board and attended the 2006 national convention in Austin, Texas, where she served on the Finance, Constitution, and Scholarship Committee. During her tenure as chapter president, Leigh continued to lead in membership recruitment and service projects, in addition to organizing the annual induction and weekly executive board meetings.

In 2007 Leigh received national Phi Eta Sigma recognition when she was awarded the G. Herbert Smith Endowed Undergraduate Scholarship. Her other academic recognitions include being named to the President’s List and Dean’s List and membership in Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa honor societies.

Most of Leigh’s extracurricular activities have been in connection with her Phi Eta Sigma events and projects, such as the quilting service project, holiday card making for residents of an assisted living facility, and a tutoring service. She was also a volunteer for the local Humane Society and with other FSU honor societies in the Early Learning Coalition for a local day care center.

Most recently Leigh has worked on campus as a student assistant with the Office of Advisor Training and Development. She feels that all of these jobs have helped her develop a strong work ethic and skills that are important in preparing her for a career in her chosen field of study.

Having been financially independent since age 18, Leigh has successfully balanced work and school and has continued to maintain a high academic standard throughout her undergraduate studies at Florida State. In spite of facing a devastating family tragedy in 2005, she has been able to move past her difficulties and stay focused on her studies. She is currently enrolled in the Combined Doctoral Program in Counseling Psychology and School Psychology at The Florida State University. She is grateful for her Phi Eta Sigma experiences and is honored to be selected as the 2008 Clark Scholar-Leader of the Year.

Beyond Your Expectations

by Theresa Price
Chapter President, The Florida State University

The 2007-2008 academic year at Florida State University was spectacular! In August, the executive board and committee members began planning for the upcoming year. These leaders were full of enthusiasm and brimming with ideas that were quickly apparent at our annual leadership workshop held in September. Prior to the workshop, attendees completed an online “How Do You Lead” survey. The associate and assistant deans of undergraduate studies kicked off the workshop with words of encouragement and support. A discussion with a consultant from FSU’s Center for Leadership and Civic Education followed as we evaluated our pre-workshop survey results. The final event, a planning exercise, allowed our new leaders to meet other officers with whom they would be working throughout the year. It was a great bonding experience.

In October, a quilting service project began. Taking many quilting sessions and several months to complete, this activity began when we received a shipment of 106 T-shirts that were misprinted. While considering how to make good use of these T-shirts, the team decided to make quilts to donate to charitable causes. This task was quite a challenge because no one on the board knew how to sew, let alone quilt. After doing some research and locating donors to contribute other materials, our members created eighteen quilts of varying sizes. First, members cut squares out of the T-shirts and ironed the squares to an interfacing. At the next gathering, the squares were painted with Florida State University arrows, stars, and Phi Eta Sigma symbols. Donated backing and stuffing were attached to the sewn quilts, and decorative ties were added. Each quilt took approximately fifteen hours to complete. When they were finally done, the quilts were taken to the Cold Night Shelter and the Children’s Home Society.

Also in October, our members dressed in costume to participate in FSU’s Halloween Library Event. Our volunteers handed out home-baked cookies and played games with students who dropped by our booth. A representative from Phi Eta Sigma served on the committee that developed and coordinated this semesterly event, which promotes organizations and services around campus.

In December, the first of two “Tutoring Extravaganzas” was held. Members were eager to volunteer to tutor Florida State University students who needed help in subjects such as English, mathematics, and chemistry. Studying was enhanced with hot chocolate and snacks.

In January, members continued to get the word out about Phi Eta Sigma. By taking home first and second place in the MLK and Honors Brain Bowls, our chapter gained lots of attention. As spring rolled in, one of our goals was to break last year’s record of 907 inductees. To aid in this effort, the dean of undergraduate studies included a message about Phi Eta Sigma in her letter to first-year students who made the Dean’s List in the fall semester. In February, new members were recruited with letters, e-mails, and an information meeting. The meeting was an open house, allowing students to drop in at their convenience. Due to the outstanding efforts of our officers and members, as well as support from the University, 918 students accepted our invitation to membership, exceeding last year’s record as we had hoped.

In March, we held a memorable induction ceremony. The guest speaker was Dr. Michelle Bourgeois, Director of Undergraduate Research and Creative Endeavors. To view the event, go to https://campus.fsu.edu/bbcswebdav/xid-1030914_3. After the ceremony, a reception offered live music, excellent food, and a breathtaking view of the football field.

The first general meeting took place in April, providing new inductees with many opportunities to volunteer before the semester ended. The second “Tutoring Extravaganza” saw an overwhelming number of new member volunteers, many of whom also volunteered at the “ACC Meeting of the Minds Conference,” a national conference for students conducting undergraduate research. This conference was a three-day event at which a group of Phi Eta Sigma volunteers guided students from other institutions around Florida State University’s campus. Phi Eta Sigma members also attended presentations and Nobel Laureate Sir Harold Kroto’s keynote address. We also attended a reception at FSU President T. K. Wetherell’s house. Other activities included a private viewing of a film student’s movie and a private show put on by the FSU Circus.

One of our proudest moments came in May. All three of our undergraduate nominees, Nicole Nonclerc, Rafael Vasquez, and Ashley Danley were recognized with Phi Eta Sigma national scholarships. Our president, Leigh Baker, was named Phi Eta Sigma’s Thomas Arkle Clark Scholar-Leader of the Year.

Overall, this past year was outstanding! We continue to strive to ensure that the future years of Florida State University’s Phi Eta Sigma chapter will continue at this high level of achievement!

The 2007-2008 chapter leaders (Robin Taylor, Theresa Price, Rafael Vasquez, Megan Walley, Leigh Baker, and Meredith Hager) touched many lives during their leadership tenure.

Heather’s Touch

by Heather Reif
Student Member
2006–2008 Executive Committee

When I attended the 2006 Phi Eta Sigma national convention as a nominee for the national Executive Committee, I did not know what to expect, but it turned out to be an amazing learning experience. After participating in the Future Directions Committee meetings at the convention, I realized that the only opportunity Phi Eta Sigma’s members had to communicate was during convention! It became my goal to come up with a way for leaders of Phi Eta Sigma to be able to contact one another more frequently and easily. I took down the names and contact information of all the people attending the convention and created a Facebook group, titled Phi Eta Sigma, with my chapter president as soon as we got back from the convention. She and I sat down and invited each of the convention attendees to the group. Before long almost everyone had been added, and the Facebook group was officially launched.

Over the past two years, I have maintained the group and kept in contact with the Phi Eta Sigma national office about its progress. Overall, it has proven to be a successful mode of communication. Due to the fact that I had been elected as a student national Executive Committee member from 2006 through 2008, I led the Publications and Promotional Committee at the 2008 national convention. This Facebook group was something that I wanted to make official, so the members of the committee came up with basic guidelines for making this specific group the one and only official Phi Eta Sigma national Forum. We decided that this Forum would be: 1) private, making it exclusive to Phi Eta Sigma members only; 2) maintained by the current administrators, with succession of responsibility to trusted members, and the possibility of creating a national position for it; 3) kept exclusive through verification of membership when a request is made to join the group; 4) easily accessible via a link on the national Web site. We also want to encourage each chapter to start a Facebook group for their members so that they can discuss local information within those groups.

Heather Reif attends The Florida State University as an entrepreneurship and management major and a biology and chemistry minor and is pursuing her goal of becoming an orthodontist. Heather has served her FSU chapter in various elective offices, was elected to the national Executive Committee in 2006, was a 2008 national convention workshop presenter on the topic “Dress for Success,” and was a 2007-2008 endowed scholarship recipient.
It has been a wonderful experience to work with each and every member of Phi Eta Sigma through this process. The Forum has been growing every day, surpassing the 300-member mark almost immediately after the 2008 convention. The process for joining the Forum is as follows:

- A member or adviser of Phi Eta Sigma must be a member of Facebook to join the Phi Eta Sigma Forum. For those who are not yet members of Facebook, you must sign up and create an account. This can be done directly on the homepage of www.Facebook.com by entering your information.

- Once a member has logged into Facebook, they must search for the Phi Eta Sigma Forum. To do this, the member must type “Phi Eta Sigma” into the search box located at the very top right side of the screen. This should bring up the groups that have applicable names to that search; the official Forum will have a picture of the Society crest next to the name. If you are still unsure of which group to join, please contact me via email (hdr05c@fsu.edu).

- The member can then click the “Request to Join” button next to the name. This will send a request to an administrator of the group, like me, letting us know that you would like to be a member of the Forum.

- The administrator will send a message to the member confirming their position in Phi Eta Sigma at their local chapter. (For security purposes, the current administrators are Heather Reif, Lindsay Painter, and Chris Boyd).

- Once the member responds, they may be admitted into the Forum! If a member is a president or vice president at their local chapter, they will be made officers of the group. The name, title, and school of all officers will be listed along the right side of the Forum page so that they can be contacted more easily; simply click on their names and send them a message!

- If any members or advisers have difficulty accessing the Forum, please contact me at hdr05c@fsu.edu for further assistance. Your participation is greatly appreciated!

I want to thank the Grand Executive Committee members for their support and generosity throughout this process, as well as everyone who has helped this Forum grow. I am excited to see members “think globally, share regionally, and act locally!” It has been an honor serving as a student member of the national Executive Committee, and I look forward to seeing great things from the new members.

Success is Invited

by Gannon University Chapter Leaders

As the members of Phi Eta Sigma know, knowledge is power. Here at Gannon University, both the executive board and the members concentrated on utilizing the knowledge we have gleaned since coming to college to better our organization and the entire Gannon community.

The Phi Eta Sigma chapter at Gannon University is the largest organization on campus. Together, the members of the executive board collaborated to plan numerous social, service, and fundraising events that a large community could participate in. To start the year off, we had a table at the Activities Fair. The Activities Fair consists of organizations on campus setting up tables that incoming students could visit to receive more information about that club or organization. Many of the freshmen were interested in learning about Phi Eta Sigma. This prepared us for the large number of new members we inducted in the spring.

After the Activities Fair, we got started with our service events. We participated in Gannon University’s GIVE Day Program. GIVE is Gannon’s Initiative to Volunteer Everywhere. While helping the community, members had the opportunity to meet other members of the organization and work together to make an impact in the Erie area. At the end of the semester, Phi Eta Sigma worked with the Social Concerns Club on their “A Sole for a Soul” project. Members donated slightly worn shoes in good condition. The project was a huge success. Golden Harvest, another Phi Eta Sigma service opportunity, was an event that collected food to feed members of the Erie community. When the weather turned colder, we moved our service events inside. A group of Phi Eta Sigma members teamed up with Gannon University’s Honors Program to sing Christmas carols at the Erie Center on Health and Aging. The residents loved it. Even though we were not the best singers by far, everyone could see the impact our time had had on our audience.

In addition to our service events, we participated in and organized quite a few social events throughout the year. Phi Eta Sigma sponsored a cornhole tournament to kick off a new year at Gannon. Every student and faculty member was invited to participate in the competition. Throughout football season, members gathered to cheer on the Knights to victory. We recognized the importance of supporting other organizations on campus. In February, we helped organize a Valentine’s Day mixer with Gannon’s KnightLife organization and Lambda Sigma, a sophomore honor society. The dance was open to any Gannon student. Many people from a variety of organizations came to have a good time. We provided cookies and punch, a DJ, and crafts. Phi Eta Sigma members had fun talking with members of other organizations.

The third component of Phi Eta Sigma, our fundraisers, was a huge success over the year. We traditionally sell Phi Eta Sigma apparel to our members. This helps build community among our members who learn to recognize their new friends in this organization. Over the year, we sold long sleeve T-shirts and sweatshirts and were able to use the money raised to provide six scholarships for outstanding members of our chapter.

The experiences of Phi Eta Sigma will last a lifetime. It is not just an honor society. We do hold a high standard of excellence, but we realize the importance of a well-rounded education. Phi Eta Sigma is an amazing asset to any campus, and we do not take our job lightly. We believe in the importance of academics and are willing to go the extra mile and meet challenges. Over the past year, Gannon University’s chapter of Phi Eta Sigma greatly contributed to the Erie community, and the members departed for the summer realizing the difference they had made and the peers they could call friends.

Our Story—
Taking Advantage of Opportunities to Touch Lives

by Lisa Ruch, IUPUI Chapter Adviser

The IUPUI Phi Eta Sigma chapter started off the year in August with all of the officers in attendance at the annual officers’ dinner at TGI Friday’s. We had a great time getting to know each other and making plans for the year.

Our first event was the annual IUPUI Weeks of Welcome Fest, where we set up a booth to welcome students back to campus, advertise our organization, and give students a chance to win prizes by playing cornhole. A week later, we set up a booth to talk to potential new members at the Student Involvement Expo.

Our first community service event took place in September as we participated in IUPUI’s United Way Day of Caring. Members spent the day working to beautify a major thoroughfare near the Indianapolis Zoo. We painted, weeded, mulched, and picked up trash. For the second year in a row, Phi Eta Sigma was the largest group participating in the event.

October brought our sixth year of participating in the Coats for Kids drive. This is an annual citywide event to collect new and gently-used coats for needy kids in Indianapolis. This was our most successful year ever as we collected well over one hundred coats to contribute! We stuffed all the coats into a member’s PT Cruiser and delivered them to Tuchman Cleaners before they were to be delivered to their final destination at the Indiana State Fairgrounds for distribution to the community. In addition to this event, our members teamed up with the city parks department and worked at the annual three-day “Haunted Halloween” at Holliday Park to provide a non-scary but entertaining Halloween for Indianapolis children.

November is Homeless Awareness Month in Indianapolis, and our chapter once again collected socks for the homeless and delivered them to a local shelter for distribution. In December, we “adopted” a local family through the Community Centers of Indianapolis and provided them with gifts and food for the holidays. This is our biggest event of the year; we all meet on a Saturday and shop for gifts all day and then spend the evening wrapping them and eating pizza.

In addition to our community service events, we have teamed up with the IUPUI Honors Club to sponsor monthly “Brown Bag” lunches covering topics of interest to our members. These have included topics such as study abroad, how to prepare for medical school, and how to prepare for graduate school. This new endeavor has been quite successful and has provided a great deal of valuable information to our members.

Finally, ten of our officers attended the annual Phi Eta Sigma Convention and Leadership Workshops... in Louisville, Kentucky, in October, and we all had a great time! We made lots of new friends, traded school merchandise, learned a great deal in the workshops, gained a few pounds eating all the delicious food that was provided, toured Churchill Downs and the Muhammad Ali Museum, and took a riverboat dinner cruise on the Ohio River. Everyone returned to campus with new inspiration and ideas for our chapter. The IUPUI Phi Eta Sigma chapter is having a great year!

IUPUI chapter participation in the campus’s United Way Day of Caring has become a Phi Eta Sigma tradition.

From North Georgia: Honor Societies Work Together
by Cristian A. Harris and Barry D. Friedman
North Georgia College and State University

councils of social fraternity and sorority leaders are entirely common features of university life at colleges and universities from coast to coast. Much less common are councils that bring together the officers of honor society chapters at their respective colleges and universities. But a university’s chapters of honor societies have no less of a need to coordinate than do its chapters of national social fraternities and sororities. The officers of six honor society groups at North Georgia College—now known as North Georgia College and State University (NGCSU)—came to that realization in 1995. Today, the officers of the twenty-one honor society groups affiliated with NGCSU’s Council of Honor Societies consider it unthinkable that they would not work together for some consequential, common purposes.

When sociology professor Linda B. August and political-science professor Barry D. Friedman brought a chapter of the Pi Gamma Mu social-science honor society to the college in 1994 and reflected on what value their chapter could have to the college and community, they reached this conclusion: Their little chapter at a small college could not do much on its own, but the coordinated efforts of the college’s various honor-society chapters could have a real impact. The main problem at that time was figuring out what honor societies existed at the college and who was running them! Information about honor societies at the college was practically non-existent. It was only after months of sending notices to academic departments and asking colleagues what they knew that six of the college’s honor society groups agreed to sign the founding constitution of the Council of Honor Societies. They did so on February 14, 1995. And the council hit the ground running. Just three months later, on May 24, 1995, the council hosted the first Honor Societies’ Initiation Banquet. The event was based on a compelling idea: At a small college, few honor society chapters have the resources to organize a respectable initiation banquet, and it is not unusual for an initiate to receive his/her membership certificate at a slapdash meeting in a classroom. But six honor society groups could bring together a nice assembly of initiates—and their parents, siblings, spouses, and friends—in a banquet hall with a pleasurable meal and a lively program. That has happened, by now, fourteen times, in so far as the council hosted, on April 15, 2008, NGCSU’s fourteenth annual Honor Societies’ Initiation Banquet. The university has grown over the past thirteen years, and this year’s banquet brought out a crowd of over two hundred people, including chapter officers, initiates, their families, their professors, the vice presidents for academic affairs and student affairs, and the president.

Clearly, the fourteen banquets have caused well over one thousand of NGCSU’s honor students to be initiated at a truly elegant, memorable event and to observe how important their academic accomplishments are to the university community. The banquets are a labor of love orchestrated by the honor society advisers, who want nothing more than for their honor students to receive the public recognition that they deserve.

Coordination of honor societies at NGCSU has provided other benefits as well. For example, in the spring of 2001, the members of NGCSU’s Phi Alpha Theta (history) chapter set out to raise money to help build the National World War II Memorial site in Washington, D.C. Their goal was $1,000, at which level the chapter would be recognized in the commemorative book for the May 2004 dedication ceremony. After months of exhausting fund raising, the history students had accumulated $625. Faculty adviser Georgina A. Mann suggested that they concede the $1,000 goal and take pride in their collection of $625. Mann mentioned the outcome to Friedman, the council’s executive director, who suggested to her that they ask for support from the other social-science honor societies. The university’s chapters of Pi Gamma Mu, Alpha Kappa Delta (sociology), Alpha Phi Sigma (criminal justice), and Pi Sigma Alpha (political science) donated another $375 for a grand total of $1,000! The members of Phi Alpha Theta gladly shared credit with the other honor society chapters. Nevertheless, they fulfilled their ambitious goal to make a significant contribution toward honoring the brave Americans who risked and gave their lives to immobilize the depravity of those who preferred genocide and oppression to the recognition of the dignity of the free human intellect and spirit.

A similar incident involves the recently established 2-1-1 telephone help line in Lumpkin County, the county in which NGCSU is located. County residents may now call the three-digit number to reach an agent who can connect them to social service and healthcare agencies that can help them with urgent or ongoing needs. Discovering that the organizers of the 2-1-1 project needed $2,000 to pay for the telephone company’s cost for linking the county’s telephone exchanges to the 2-1-1 line, Friedman sent an e-mail message to the officers of the university’s twenty-one honor society groups. The university’s Omicron Delta Kappa (leadership) and Phi Kappa Phi (interdisciplinary) chapters led the way with $500 donations. They were joined by the Beta Gamma Sigma (business administration), Phi Eta Sigma, Pi Delta Phi(French), Pi Gamma Mu, Pi Sigma Alpha, Psi Chi (psychology), and Sigma Theta Tau (nursing) chapters, as well as the council. At the council’s 2008 banquet, the officers of these honor societies presented a check in the amount of $2,000 to a representative of the county’s United Way. And now, the people of the surrounding community are better off because NGCSU’s honor societies worked together.

If it is unthinkable to honor society officers at NGCSU that the university should not have a Council of Honor Societies, perhaps it is time for honor society officers at other colleges and universities to establish similar councils. Visit the home page of NGCSU’s council at http://www.NGCSU.edu/bdf/CHonSoc/index.htm. More information about the council’s activities and accomplishments appears there and might provide Phi Eta Sigma chapter officers with a vision of how their chapters’ results can be multiplied through collaboration with the other honor societies at their institutions.

Cristian A. Harris (caharris@NGCSU.edu), faculty adviser of the NGCSU chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, and Barry D. Friedman (bfriedman@NGCSU.edu), executive director of NGCSU’s Council of Honor Societies, are political-science professors at NGCSU.
Omicron Delta Kappa
The National Leadership Honor Society

Omicron Delta Kappa, Peering Beyond the Horizon
by Dr. Kenneth P. Ruscio

Phi Eta Sigma has a history of recognizing academically successful first-year students. As you may also know, it began as a men’s freshmen honor society. Omicron Delta Kappa preceded it, as it was founded in 1914 at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia - a men’s college. So, for the first sixty years of its existence it was exclusively male. Now, both societies are happily and proudly coeducational. \( \Omega \Delta K \) was begun as something different than other general or academic-specific societies. In fact, it was the first honor society of a national scope to give recognition and honor for meritorious leadership and service in extracurricular activities in addition to academic success. Another noteworthy element of Omicron Delta Kappa is its joint faculty-student character. It was felt that bringing together leaders from all parts of the campus would enhance the group and give it the influence to make a difference in their campus community. This has proved to be true and continues to be an essential feature of the chapters, which are called Circles, throughout the nation.

Membership in \( \Omega \Delta K \) is awarded only at campuses where there is an active Circle. With Circles located at over three hundred schools, most schools having Phi Eta Sigma chapters also have Circles of Omicron Delta Kappa. Additional membership criteria include being at a minimum of junior standing, in the top 35 percent of one’s class, and most critically, an established leader in one or more of the following phases of campus life:

- Scholarship
- Athletics
- Campus or Community Service, Social and Religious Activities or Campus Government
- Journalism, Speech, or the Mass Media
- Creative and Performing Arts

In recent years Omicron Delta Kappa has started two noteworthy national programs. While the essential ingredients of recognition, service, and leadership continue to take place on a local Circle level, the national organization has begun these two powerful leadership programs to better serve the broader “community.”

The signature program of \( \Omega \Delta K \) was formulated as a leadership development program for a select group of our members. However, we were intent on not duplicating other successful leadership programs. Thanks largely to one of our Board members, we decided to give attention to a volunteer activity that many of our members are asked to perform. Because of the kind of individual chosen for membership, inductees are often asked to serve as a member of a nonprofit board of directors. However, and this seems true for most newly chosen nonprofit board members, a clear understanding of what is required, what one should know, and how best to decide whether or not to accept such an offer is needed. Meeting these expectations is the purpose of Omicron Delta Kappa’s Campus Leaders Today, Community Leaders Tomorrow program. OΔK has given this program the acronym CLT2.

CLT2 has been very successful in providing exceptional training to members about service on nonprofit boards. It is held in four consecutive days and has been located in New York City and Washington, D.C. A very critical element of the experience is a visit for each participant with a nonprofit board member and executive. The impact of CLT2 will continue to be felt in the future as these members are asked to serve on nonprofit boards in their communities.

The second national leadership program has begun in 2008. It is the OΔK Leadership Lecture Series. The primary purpose of the program is to provide Circles and Alumni Clubs the opportunity to receive distinguished lecturers as speakers for a day. Chosen by a national committee for this special recognition, the OΔK Distinguished Lecturers in Leadership come from a variety of backgrounds and will share insights on how they attained personal and professional success.

The host Circle is responsible for arranging housing, meals, and local transportation. Thanks to the generosity of sponsors, the OΔK Foundation will provide an honorarium to each distinguished lecturer and will absorb the program management costs. Past OΔK Distinguished Lecturers include Dr. John Churchill, National Secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, and William R. Johnston, former President of the New York Stock Exchange.

Aim high; seek membership in Omicron Delta Kappa on your campus.

Thirty-ninth National Convention and Leadership Workshops: Summary Report

by John W. Sagabiel, Grand Secretary-Treasurer

The Thirty-ninth National Convention and Leadership Workshops of Phi Eta Sigma were hosted by the University of Louisville chapter and the Executive West Hotel, October 3-5, 2008. The two hundred attendees included representatives of the Executive Committee, chapter advisors, chapter delegates, chapter alternate delegates, and special guests.

Once the attendees arrived at the Executive West Hotel, our hosts directed them to the convention registration and hospitality area located in the hotel’s convention wing. The spacious Queen of Scots meeting room, where our convention banner and public relations exhibit were prominently displayed, was the perfect setting for the hospitality and registration activities. National office staff and Executive Committee members provided participants with their custom-designed convention T-shirts and tote bags containing the convention agenda material to review while they enjoyed hospitality, snacks and drinks. The always-popular Society public relations display, scrapbooks of past conventions, and chapter displays occupied everyone’s attention. Lots of photographs were taken and new friendships formed. Newly renovated and furnished sleeping rooms, convention meals, entertainment and sightseeing tours were provided by the national office.

Everyone seemed to enjoy a bounteous dinner buffet early Friday evening, which was followed by the first official convention business session and committee meetings. Delegates and alternate delegates staffed the following convention committees: Finance, Constitution and Scholarship; Nominations; Future Directions; and Publications and Promotional. The opportunity to participate in the committee of one’s choice provided leadership options for all.

The evening’s activities concluded with the ever-popular ice cream social, which featured the exchange of specialty items from our campus chapters in attendance, such as T-shirts, pens, pencils, stickers, mugs, etc. This event is always a highlight and a traditional activity for our convention weekend, in addition to a favorite photo opportunity.

Saturday’s heavily scheduled day began with a continental breakfast at the Society’s hospitality center. The second business session convened at 8 a.m. and was followed by leadership workshops and committee meetings. The workshop offerings featured three options, each offered twice during the morning.

The leadership workshops, complemented by PowerPoint presentations and handouts of the material discussed, are a popular ingredient of our weekend of fellowship. This year’s schedule included “Dress for Success,” by The Florida State University Executive Committee member Heather Reif; “Can You Hear Me Now,” by Gannon University Executive Committee member Leah Campbell; and “From Job Search to Job Security,” by UCLA Executive Committee member Linda

Chu. The chapter advisers’ workshop was conducted by Executive Committee member Marilyn Moore, Gannon University.

The convention luncheon also provided a number of special highlights, including the establishment of the Nancy Kaplan (St. John’s University) Endowed Scholarship, which increased the Society’s national endowed undergraduate scholarships to thirty-seven.

It is always a highlight of each convention when outstanding, long-serving chapter advisers are presented the Society’s Distinguished Service Award. This year’s recipients were Dr. Howard Gray (Brigham Young University), Ms. Marilyn Moore (Gannon University), Dr. William Neher (Butler University), Dr. Curtis Olson (University of South Dakota), Ms. Lisa Ruch (Indiana University - Purdue University Indianapolis) and Dr. Michael Toglia (SUNY at Cortland and currently University of North Florida).

One hundred chapters were awarded “Pathways” awards, which are presented to chapters whose membership orders required the very minimum amount of processing effort and time at the national office, meaning that we did not have to sort or alphabetize anything, nor did we have to telephone or email the chapter adviser to clarify any details of the order.

Convention attendees enjoyed the appetizing luncheon buffet, saluted our newest endowed scholarship honoree, cheered our Distinguished Service Award recipients, and applauded the 2007-2008 Pathways Award teams prior to boarding our chartered buses for special Louisville destinations.

Our brief first stop was Churchill Downs, the most famous racetrack in America and the home of the pinnacle of horse racing success, The Kentucky Derby. We toured the racetrack grounds, visited the Kentucky Derby Museum, and had our official convention photograph taken at that national landmark.

We reboarded our tour buses for a trip through downtown Louisville to the banks of the Ohio River and the new Muhammad Ali Center and Museum. Following our Ali Center tour we boarded the Belle of Louisville sternwheeler for our Ohio River sightseeing cruise, dinner, and dance.

We returned to the Executive West Hotel late Saturday night but with enough time for our convention leadership to put the finishing touches on their committee reports and for the Nominations Committee to complete its selection process.

Sunday morning began with a pleasing-for-all breakfast buffet, followed by the final business session, during which the Grand Vice President, Grand Secretary-Treasurer, and members of the Executive Committee were elected; additional convention committee reports were presented by student-member chairpersons; an amendment to the Society Constitution and Laws was approved; and miscellaneous housekeeping matters were discussed.

The convention Finance, Constitution, and Scholarship Committee recommended to the convention delegates that the endowed undergraduate scholarships be increased to $6,000 each. The recommendation passed unanimously. This scholarship enhancement will be effective with the 2009-2010 recipients. All other scholarships will remain at their current level.

The unique strength of Phi Eta Sigma is its democratic form of government, managed by students attending national conventions.

The tough part of any convention is always the “goodbyes.” Many new friendships developed during our time together; big hugs and sincere farewells concluded our fellowship. The knowledge gained from this convention will assist us in future Society activities, and we will reflect on our fellowship in Louisville for years to come.

“Dress for Success” workshop was presented by Executive Committee student member Heather Reif (The Florida State University).

FORUM of Phi Eta Sigma, Volume LXXIX, 2009 81
Report of the Grand Secretary

Report Of The Grand Secretary
The Thirty-Ninth National Convention And Leadership Workshops

by John W. Sagabel
Louisville, Kentucky
October 3-5, 2008

The opportunity to meet and greet each of you is a convention highlight for me. Many of us have communicated by e-mail messages or talked by phone numerous times but are just now meeting for the first time.

The delegates attending the 1992 Purdue convention and every convention since have placed a great deal of faith and trust in me. The presentation of this secretary’s report, and at a later time a treasurer’s report, will provide information you may use to form an evaluation of fourteen years of growth and honor society leadership.

Francis Bacon once said, “A wise person will make more opportunities than one finds.” Creating opportunities, with guidance from convention committees, is becoming a way of life for the Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society. This is the spirit of our Society.

The duties and responsibilities of the Grand Secretary-Treasurer are stated in Article VII, Sections 1, 2, and 3, of the Constitution and Laws and read as follows:

“The Grand Secretary-Treasurer shall keep and safely preserve all records and archives of the Society; shall record all laws, orders, resolutions, and proceedings of the Grand Chapter; shall act as the Secretary of the Executive Committee and report the minutes at the regular sessions of the Grand Chapter succeeding the election; issue charters and copies of the ritual as hereinafter provided; and shall keep an accurate enrollment of all members of the Society and issue certificates of membership as prescribed by statute.

“The Grand Secretary-Treasurer shall collect and preserve all moneys due or donated to the Society, paying out the same upon order of the Executive Committee; shall keep accurate books of account and, upon request, furnish the Executive Committee with a statement of the finances of the Society, of the individual accounts of the several chapters, or of the accounts of the members thereof; shall render an annual statement of receipts and disbursements to the Executive Committee. The books and accounts shall be audited under the direction of the Executive Committee. The Grand Secretary-Treasurer shall give, at the expense of the Society, a good and sufficient bond, approved by the Executive Committee.

“The Secretary-Treasurer shall be Editor of the Forum.”

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. The Executive Committee met before and after the Thirty-eighth National Convention and again June 5-8, 2007, at the Wyndham Arlington Hotel in Arlington, Texas. Minutes of those meetings are available upon request. The committee met again before this convention; any recommendations it has for the convention will be channeled to appropriate committees.

CONTACT WITH CHAPTERS. Communications with chapter officers and advisers have assisted them to achieve the purposes and objectives of Phi Eta Sigma in ways consistent with the policies of the host institution and the expressed will of the local members. Contact has been maintained on such matters as:

a. Processing orders for keys, brochures, and chapter supplies
b. Receiving and filing permanent membership records
c. Preparing and mailing certificates for new members and assisting chapter record keeping by providing a computer print-out of new members as they are inducted
d. Preparing directory and activities reports for the Forum
e. Supplying campuses with Hints on Learning and Studying pamphlets
f. Supplying application forms for scholarships
g. Informing chapters of convention plans

OFFICE EXPENSES. Phi Eta Sigma is fortunate that Western Kentucky University has assigned highly desirable office and storage space to us at no cost, and we are also the beneficiary of university postal service, copy service, WATS telephone service, Internet connection, FAX service, parking, and physical plant support as though we were a university department. The office staff consists of myself, an executive assistant, two part-time records assistants as needed, and one part-time business manager.

NEW CHAPTERS. Since the University of Texas-Austin Convention in 2006, nine new chapters have been installed. These are:

CONSTITUTIONS. An adequate number of copies of the most recently revised constitution are kept on hand at the national office. A revised constitution is included with the chapter mailing following every national convention.

HINTS ON LEARNING AND STUDYING PAMPHLETS. Some 175,000 copies are distributed each year without charge to campuses where there is a chapter of Phi Eta Sigma. Every chapter should take pride in distributing this very popular study pamphlet. It receives enthusiastic response from all of those who use it. It is also a means of introducing Phi Eta Sigma to new students; many chapters use it at orientation sessions, since there is a description of the Society on the back page.

PHI ETA SIGMA BROCHURES. The “Question and Answer” brochure and the “Overview” brochure are designed for chapter use in contacting eligible students and for public relations efforts as needed. They should be enclosed in letters of invitation to join; they may also be mailed to parents of prospective members and in personal contact invitations.

NUMBERS OF INITIATES. The following tabulation lists the number of inductees by years since the founding of the Society in 1923. I urge all chapters to make a concerted effort to induct all eligible students, with personal invitations to those who do not respond to the first letter and/or e-mail. A stimulating program of academic, service, volunteerism, and worthwhile social activities will also attract high achieving students. I urge all chapters to keep local fees as low as possible so no student will decline membership because the cost is beyond his or her resources. Our current national membership fee is the lowest of all nationally certified honor societies, and we expect chapters to strive to keep their costs low, as well.

INDUCTION CEREMONY BROCHURES. This brochure was revised by the 1984 convention and is to be used at each induction. Each chapter should have at least two copies. National can supply needed copies at no charge. The induction ceremony publication was reprinted in 2004.

THE FORUM. The national office has a bound set of the Forum for the years 1931–99. The University of Illinois library also has a complete set of bound copies. Each chapter should make sure a copy is given to the president of their institution and to their local library. The Forum contains a comprehensive and current overview of Society yearly accomplishments. Each new member is entitled to a copy of the current issue following induction.

GENERAL REMARKS. I share with you the pleasure of recognizing the value of Phi Eta Sigma in enhancing the quality of life on campuses where it exists and in its value in recruiting and retaining excellent students. Together we recognize the vital part it plays on its many campuses through numerous activities of much variety and value. I applaud the part played by chapter officers, individual members, and most importantly, chapter advisers. The men and women who advise and sustain the local chapters are crucial to the functioning, welfare, and value of the chapter to its members and to its institution. I am especially pleased that, through the undergraduate awards, Phi Eta Sigma is able to express some of its appreciation to local chapters and institutions.

I am honored to have served Phi Eta Sigma during the past sixteen years. It has been both pleasant and rewarding for me.

NOTE A - NATURE OF ACTIVITIES AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Nature of Activities

Phi Eta Sigma is a national honor society which was founded on March 22, 1923, to encourage and reward high scholastic achievement among first-year students in institutions of higher learning. Phi Eta Sigma is a nonprofit organization and was incorporated on July 1, 1996.

Basis of Accounting

The financial statements of Phi Eta Sigma have been prepared on the accrual basis. Revenue is recognized when earned.

Financial Statement Presentation

Financial statement presentation follows the recommendations of the Financial Accounting Standards Board in its Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 117, Financial Statements for Not-for-Profit Organizations. Under SFAS No. 117, the Organization is required to report information regarding its financial position and activities according to three classes of net assets: unrestricted net assets, temporarily restricted net assets, and permanently restricted net assets. In addition, the Organization is required to present a statement of cash flows.

Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost or market with cost being determined by using the weighted-average cost method. The inventories consisted of the following at June 30, 2008 and 2007:

Accounts Receivable

No allowance for doubtful accounts is provided as all receivables are considered collectible.

Income Taxes

Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society, Inc. is a not-for-profit organization that is exempt from income taxes under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. The organization is not a private foundation under Section 509 (a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Deferred Convention Expense

Conventions are held every other year and therefore convention expenses are allocated over the two-year period following the convention. Deferred convention expense reflects costs incurred in the year of the convention which will not be charged to expense until the following year.

Nature of Prior-Year Summarized Information

The financial statements include certain prior-year summarized comparative information in total but not by net asset class. Such information does not include sufficient detail to constitute a presentation in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Accordingly, such information should be read in conjunction with the organization’s financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2007, from which the summarized information was derived.

Functional Expenses

The cost of providing the organization’s programs and supporting services have been reported on a functional basis in the statement of activities. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services based on estimates made by management.

Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are recorded at cost less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred; major renewals and betterments are capitalized. When items of property or equipment are sold or retired, the related cost and accumulated depreciation are removed from the accounts and any gain or loss is included in income.

Cash and Cash Equivalents / Cash Flow Information

However, temporary cash and money market fund investments which are part of the organization’s investment pool, which is further described in Note D, are not included in cash for purposes of the Statement of Cash Flows since these funds have been set aside by either the organization’s board of trustees or by agreements with donors for long-term investment purposes.

Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from those estimates.

NOTE B - VALUATION OF INVESTMENTS

Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society, Inc. adopted SFAS No. 124, "Accounting for Certain Investments Held by Not-for-Profit Organizations" in 1997. Under SFAS No. 124, investments in marketable securities with readily determinable fair values and all investments in debt securities are reported at their fair values in the statement of financial position. The value of publicly-traded fixed income and equity securities is based upon quoted market prices and exchange rates, if applicable. Unrealized gains and losses are included in the change in net assets.
NOTE C - RESTRICTIONS ON NET ASSETS

Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society, Inc. classifies net assets as unrestricted, temporarily restricted, or permanently restricted based on the existence and/or nature of any donor restrictions. A portion of each initiation fee collected by Phi Eta Sigma is designated by initiates as a donation to permanently restricted net assets. In accordance with donor restrictions, interest and dividend earnings from permanently restricted assets are classified as temporarily restricted until used to fund the scholarship program. For the years ended June 30, 2008 and 2007, $2.50 of each individual initiation fee was designated by initiates as donations to permanently restricted assets.

In addition to these funds which have been temporarily or permanently restricted by donors, the Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society, Inc.'s Board of Trustees has set aside the following unrestricted net assets for the purposes described below:

NOTE D - INVESTMENTS

The Organization's investments are recorded at the quoted market value in accordance with SFAS No. 124, "Accounting for Certain Investments Held by Not-for-Profit Organizations". Unrealized gains and losses are included in the change in net assets in the accompanying statements of activities. Gains and losses and investment income derived from investments, receivables, and the like are accounted for as unrestricted, temporarily restricted, or permanently restricted based on restrictions, if any, imposed by donors. Most of the Organization's agreements with donors (including initiates) who have created permanently restricted funds require that realized and unrealized gains and losses on investments be added or subtracted to the funds' principal balances rather than being considered income available for use by the organization. Realized and unrealized gains and losses on the Organization's unrestricted long-term investments are reflected as increases or decreases in unrestricted net assets.
